The anchors Haasini P and Tejashwini R introduced the topic highlighting the importance of developing Emotional Maturity among young learners.

The first programme of the Assembly was 'Emotional Roller Coaster.' A Wheel of Emotions was spun around and different emotions were explained by the students in an insightful manner.

The main programme of the Assembly was 'Ad Fad.' The dedicated students staged a skit using the premise of Advertisements to drive home three attributes of Emotional Maturity.

After a peppy introduction, students used advertisements of popular products with their taglines and connected them to various activities conducted in school to develop Emotional Maturity among students.

The different Values instilled in students through Celebrations, SEWA projects, initiatives like the White Cane Day, social awareness messages in different areas of school to conserve precious resources like water and electricity were highlighted through the first set of advertisements.

The attribute of Responsibility is developed in students by exposing them to various Celebrations and Class Assemblies. Opportunities to take up leadership at class level and school level is provided through Class Monitor and Student Council Elections. This was brought about in a pleasant manner through a second set of advertisements.

The multitude of group activities and projects done by students, variety of learning tools like Story Maps, Timelines, and Worksheets developed for conceptual understanding, inter mural and inter school competitions covering different skills and personalised feedback after exams through Top Sheet were all clearly elucidated by the third set of advertisements, highlighting the attribute of Critical Thinking.

The Skit ended on a humorous note with the students once again highlighting the role of School in cultivating Emotional Maturity among learners.

The next event was an interview with two young leaders – We, the Leaders. Saismrithi took it upon herself to interview Sravya Sriram and Vaibhav Venkat of Class XI to elaborate on the Adolescent Peer Leadership Programme initiated by CBSE. They appraised the audience about the lifeskills imparted in the various orientations attended by them and how the school guided them to conduct various workshops and activities in school to disseminate their learning to their peers.

The synchronised dancers of VIII D set Emotions in Motion through their fluid and expressive moves. The songs were a manifestation of emotionally mature thoughts and positive outlook towards life. The audience enjoyed the performance.

The entire class came together and expressed its heartfelt gratitude to Principal ma'am, all the Supervisory-in-Charges, teachers, parents, grandparents and their peers for supporting them in the entire journey through an adaptation of the farewell song from 'The Sound of Music' The audience came alive and joined the chorus of the class.
